The course description: The Global Citizenship, Interculturality and Mediation course aims to train ethical and socially responsible professionals who are able to deal with the complex social and cultural scenarios of the 21st century. It transcends conventional boundaries, exploring the contemporary challenges of global citizenship through a holistic view of intercultural interactions, in which mediation is a central tool in the management of interpersonal relationships and conflicts. The areas of intervention of this course cover the promotion of active citizenship and peaceful conflict resolution importance of interculturality as a catalyst for harmonious coexistence in plural societies. With a view to developing joint work between Universities, this BIP is based on active problem-based learning and role-play techniques. There will also be an immersive experience in intercultural organizations, with the presence of mediation teams, and where citizenship is a challenge. To disseminate collectively constructed knowledge, throughout the course students and teachers on Erasmus+ mobility are challenged, through the tasks proposed in workshops, to prepare chapters to integrate an E-book on Global Citizenship, Interculturality and Mediation.
