Italian language test

Pursuant to Italian Ministry of University and Research provisions, candidates coming from non-EU countries and wishing to enroll in bachelor's/master's/integrated master's degrees taught in Italian must prove knowledge of the Italian language.

A certificate of level B2 or higher issued as part of the CLIQ quality system is required. If this certificate has not been obtained, the candidate must successfully undertake an Italian language test, which is held every year at our University: candidates who fail the test will not be allowed to enroll.

If the selected degree programme is entirely taught in English, non-EU candidates are exempted from taking the Italian language test.

Detailed information on exemptions from the Italian language test may be found in Ministerial provisions.
